ABOUT US AND OUR MISSION

Quality FootCare Products has been supplying podiatry and chiropody professionals since before 1980. We are proud to say that QFC may be the best resource for equipment, instruments and general quality supplies for the podiatric industry. With competitive pricing and attentive personalized service.

Our promise to you is to provide quality products at fair and reasonable prices. Our goal is to find ways to save you money without compromising on quality. We promise to do that by processing and shipping your orders accurately and efficiently. Lastly but certainly not least - we promise to keep current with the newest products available and dedicate ourselves to the satisfaction of you, our customers.

How to order

We make it easy for you to order.

You may order by fax, email or phone. We even provide a $2 discount on most emailed or faxed orders. If you are new to us, we would request that you pay your first order by credit card. (Hospitals, Family Health Teams and many organizations are exempt from this - please call if you have any questions.) Once established you will be entitled to thirty days free credit - pay after you have received your orders. In most cases product returns or exchanges require only a phone call or email to let us know what you might be returning. We request that instruments be wrapped so that they are protected during transit. Should any of our products require attention at any time, please call us at 1-866-833-9352 or email us at quality@qfootcare.com.

We are essentially a warehouse driven without a retail showroom. However sometimes creative solutions can be worked out for customers needing to view products including virtual meetings and sharing videos.

How to return goods

At Quality FootCare, we make it easy for you to return products.

The most important information we need is your invoice number and what you are requesting (replacement, credit, refund, etc. included with your return). The pdf file (Return Merchandise Form) that can be found on our website makes it very easy to return merchandise without the bother of getting an RMA or RGA number. Used instruments must be cleaned and sterilized before return. Items must be packaged to prevent damage. You may request a copy of our guide to returning products.

FAQ: free shipping, bulky shipments, etc.

Due to rising transportation cost, free shipping and handling (S&H) will be provided now on most orders over $150. Most orders between $75 and $150 will be charged $10 S&H. Orders under $75 will incur a $18.00 S&H charge. Orders to more remote locations, bulky or heavy items, such as single use packs, gowns and liquids, may incur additional charges.

There is no minimum order but we ask customers to consider the environmental cost of placing many small orders instead of grouping together.

Back-orders are almost always shipped free of charge.

The majority of our orders are shipped the day after by expedited post or courier. Delivery varies from one to six business days. Standard delivery times are seldom guaranteed so customers are encouraged to order early to avoid disappointment.

If you require a faster delivery time, please inform us of your needs when you place the order. Additional costs may apply. If you are not 100% happy with your order, please contact us.

PRICE MATCHING - On those rare occasions our prices are not the lowest we will endeavour to match whatever deal you have found. Some exclusions and exceptions apply.

An investment in quality

A guide entitled, "Recommended Procedures for Care, Maintenance and Sterilization of QFC Surgical Instruments" is available on page 70.

All QFC instruments are supplied non-sterile unless specified otherwise. When you purchase QFC instruments, you are investing in quality products. Care and maintenance will prolong their lives and afford the user with many years of trouble free service.

After removing from packaging, QFC instruments should be cleaned and sterilized before use.

During cleaning and sterilization cycles do not mix dissimilar metal instruments. Keep stainless steel/chromium-plated/silver-plated instruments etc. separate and do not process in the same cycle; otherwise corrosion or staining may occur on the stainless steel instruments.

In all procedures, ensure that the instruments are in their unlocked, open positions and that the joints are exposed to the cleaning/sterilizing processes. If instruments are locked during sterilizing, stresses in the joints will be produced which will eventually weaken the joints and lead to fracture.

VANMAX New from Summit Doppler
The Vantage ABI..... Simplifying the diagnosis of P.A.D.
The true one-button ABI system that performs the ABI exam in as little as three minutes. Now, diagnosing Peripheral Arterial Disease for the 8-12 million Americans affected can be done fast and accurately.
The Vantage ABI uses an innovative cuff-based technology for performing the ankle-brachial index (ABI) exam to assist in the diagnosis of peripheral arterial disease (P.A.D.).
The system provides accurate determination of the ABI across the full range of P.A.D. The technology, developed by Summit Doppler, was co-invented in cooperation with researchers from the Cleveland Clinic. It uses DFO waveform analysis, a significant improvement in ankle pressure determination and peripheral arterial disease assessment over traditional forms of oscillometric ankle pressure estimation.

Dr. Jill's Foot Pads - reference section

A great company with an unusual way of listing their products. Each shape and corresponding part number comes in many formats. A single shape may be available in felt, foam or moleskin and may come in different thicknesses. And some shapes may come as a regular cut or skived meaning bevelled.

This is why a shape does not have a single price

We are gradually discontinuing all Steins products in favour of Dr. Jills that in most cases provides our customer with better value and consistent availability.

Single Use Instruments - FAQ

How do I know if a device is for single-use?

It will have this symbol on the packaging or the device:

What does single-use mean?

Do not reuse. A single-use device is used on an individual patient during a single procedure and then discarded. It is not intended to be reprocessed and used again, even on the same patient.

Is single-patient use the same as single-use?

No. Single-patient use means the medical device may be used for more than one episode of use on one patient only; the device may undergo some form of reprocessing between each use.

Why shouldn't they be reused?

Serious incidents relating to reuse of single-use devices have occurred.

Reuse can be unsafe because of risk of:

- cross-infection – inability to clean and decontaminate due to design.
- endotoxin reaction – excessive bacterial breakdown products, which cannot be adequately removed by cleaning.
- patient injury – device failure from reprocessing or reuse because of fatigue, material alteration and embrittlement.
- chemical burns or sensitisation – residues from chemical decontamination agents on materials that can absorb chemicals.

Also, if you reuse a single-use device you may be legally liable for the safe performance of the device.

Can I sterilise a single-use device?

A few single-use devices are marketed as non-sterile. These may require processing, in line with the manufacturer's instructions, to make them sterile and ready for use.

You must not resterilise or reuse them.

The Story behind our Single Use Instruments

Processed in a Class 7 medical grade cleanroom, used for the packing of single use stainless steel medical instruments. Built and operated in accordance with the strict protocols and methods necessary to create and maintain a highly controlled environment, the cleanroom is microbiologically tested every three months and fully validated every year.

Processed on-site in its own on-site Ethylene Oxide (EtO) sterilising chamber. EtO sterilisation is ideal for disposable products because it safely sterilises delicate devices that cannot support conventional high temperature steam sterilisation, working at a low temperature but with high efficacy.

Shipping of single use podiatry packs

Single use sets are one of the few products we charge a delivery cost. Most orders of other products ship for free when the order reaches $100. We subsidize the cost so you pay less than the actual cost we are charged and it becomes a better value for you on larger orders. For example, ten sets ship for $10 and 100 sets ship for $30.00.

Personal Single Patient Use is a VERY different category of instruments than single use instruments.
Please contact us for more information.

Personal Single Patient Use

Personal patient nail care products from QFC are a low cost, yet good quality range of instruments, designed for single patient use, as an alternative to professional reusable or single use instruments. Using personal single patient nail care products will help to protect your patients from infections borne from cross contamination. With simple care instructions, patients take their instruments home and bring them back for each appointment.

We recommend you first check what professional guidelines and health authority rules are in place that might govern the use of personal single patient use instruments before purchasing. Best practises regarding cleaning, sterilization and protecting your patients are constantly evolving.

Our nail cutters offer similar levels of quality that you would expect from QFC, but are made from lower specification steel as they are not designed for repeated autoclaving. Please note that due to their intended use, all personal nail care products are excluded from our lifetime guarantee.

Tourni-cot rings make it simple and easy to occlude vessels during digit surgery. Rolling the elastic ring onto the digit squeezes blood from the field. Once in place, the ring applies reliable pressure to act as an exsanguinating tourniquet. Apply after anesthetizing the digit, and remove by cutting the ring at its notch.

Recommended Procedures for Care, Maintenance and Sterilization of QFC Surgical Instruments

Unless alternative instructions are supplied with individual products, these instructions apply. All QFC instruments are supplied non-sterile unless specified otherwise. The use of all QFC instruments should be limited to qualified personnel. An investment in quality - When you purchase QFC instruments, you are investing in quality products. Care and maintenance will prolong their lives and afford the user with many years of trouble free service. Please follow the care and maintenance guide. A guide to the most common problems associated with instruments and their solutions is detailed for your reference.

Care before cleaning and Sterilization

After removing from packaging, QFC instruments should be cleaned and sterilized before use.

During cleaning and sterilization cycles do not mix dissimilar metal instruments. Keep stainless steel/ chromium plated/ silver plated instruments etc. separate and do not process in the same cycle; otherwise corrosion or staining may occur on the stainless steel instruments.

At all times ensure any solutions/compounds that are used to clean/sterilize the instruments are neutral pH7. If low pH solutions are used they will cause black staining and high pH solutions will cause brown staining on the surface and in the joints of the instruments. If solutions do need to be used which are not neutral pH7, they must be thoroughly washed off afterwards by liberal amounts of demineralized water.

In all procedures, ensure that the instruments are in their unlocked, open positions and that the joints are exposed to the cleaning/sterilizing processes. If instruments are locked during sterilizing, stresses in the joints will be produced which will eventually weaken the joints and lead to fracture.

The majority of QFC instruments that contain joints or metal-to-metal contact (e.g. scissor blades) are supplied pre-lubricated. We recommend after removal from packaging the instruments are rinsed and cleaned prior to sterilization.

We do not recommend "WD40" or other industrial lubricants for our instruments. A specially formulated lubricant, (Instrument Lube MIL3-700), is available from QFC that is excellent for surgical instruments lubrication.

Rinsing

After removal from packaging or immediately after use, the instruments should be washed/rinsed with warm running water. Care should be taken to remove all traces of blood, saliva, mucous, saline solutions or foreign debris, especially from serrations and joints. Nylon bristled brushes or cotton wool may be used to aid this process. Under no circumstances must iron wool, iron bristled brushes or abrasives be used.

The instruments should then be cleaned – see "cleaning" and then thoroughly dried. At this stage the instruments should be carefully inspected to ensure that their working parts and function are not impaired.

Any instruments that have joints or have metal-to-metal contact should then be lubricated with instrument lubricants and stored in a clean and dry environment.

Cleaning

Hand washing is recommended, especially for Micro, Ophthalmic and delicate instruments. If machine washing or chemical cleaners are to be used, the manufacturers instructions should be followed.

Ultrasonic cleaning

Ultrasonic cleaning is permissible (if instruments contain plastic components, check individual instructions supplied with instruments to confirm permissibility). After ultrasonic cleaning, the cleaning solution should be washed away by rinsing in demineralized water. The instruments should then be thoroughly dried and lubricated. We recommend Micro, Ophthalmic and delicate instruments are not ultrasonically cleaned as ultrasonic cleaning could impair the delicate cutting edges and tips of the instruments. Change ultrasonic solution regularly as recommended by solution manufacturer.

Disinfection

We do not recommend this form of cleaning. However, if no other option exists, it may be performed under strict guidelines. Disinfection may be performed by immersion or by washer sterilizers. Manufacturers instructions on concentrations of solutions and processing times should be strictly adhered to. After disinfection, wash thoroughly with sterilized water, dry the instruments.

Some disinfectants will cause corrosion to stainless steels. Allow minimum immersion time of instruments in solution as recommended by disinfectant manufacturer.

Change disinfection solution regularly and where recommended use corrosion inhibitors.

*Caution* Cleaning, rinsing, disinfection, and boiling render instruments "clean". They do not make instruments sterile.

Sterilization

Unless specified otherwise with instructions for individual products; sterilization may be performed by autoclaving, dry heat, flash autoclaving, gamma irradiation, cold sterilization or ethylene oxide.

We do not recommend "Glass Bead" sterilization – a process in which only the front, working end of the instrument is inserted into a heated vat of glass/silica beads. As this process may not destroy any migrating spores or bacteria which may be at other parts on the instrument away from the working end. This form of sterilization may also lead to instrument discolouration and early fracture – due to variable temperature gradient from the front to the back of the instrument.

Some instruments cannot be sterilized by all of the above processes. Consult individual instructions supplied with instruments that indicate suitable sterilization method. Do not allow temperature of sterilizers/ autoclaves to exceed 180 degrees centigrade, otherwise, the instruments may be discoloured or their strength (temper) may be impaired.

IMPORTANT - Always sterilize instruments in their open positions.

Disengage all ratchets (locks) and ensure sufficient surface of the joints is exposed to allow the sterilizing medium access to the surfaces hidden under the joints (box locks for example). If instruments are sterilized in a process where heat is involved and the instruments are left in their locked positions, the joints will crack.

After sterilization the instruments should be allowed to cool and fully air dry before use.

Whichever process is used, adhere strictly to manufacturers sterilization instructions. Wherever water is used in sterilization procedures, e.g. in "steam autoclaving", we recommend salt free demineralized water is used instead of tap water. *Caution* For dry heat (hot air) sterilization we recommend paraffin oil is used to lubricate the joints and ratchets of instruments before sterilization.

*Caution* Avoid the contact of your surgical instruments with the following materials as these materials will cause discolouration/corrosion that could lead to failure.

Abrasives, Aluminium chloride, Barium chloride, Betadine solutions, Bleaches, Bromine, Iodine, Mercury or its compounds, Peroxides, Potassium chloride, or any liquids, compounds which produce volatile/corrosive vapours.

Always be gentle and treat your instruments with care.
